Business Energy – Reducing expenses and improving the bottom line

Understanding business energy contracts and the energy market is an important capability, enabling you to make an informed decision regarding the best approach for your business' energy procurement and management. In this workshop, we will be discussing the breakdown of your energy bill and the differences between contract types, evaluating each and how to decide what's right for you. We will also be looking at the benefits of using an energy consultancy to work with you on your energy procurement process, and how we can analyse and mitigate risk within the current energy market to help you to position your business to gain significant financial and commercial benefits.

Lorne Giles

As the Head of Risk Management, Lorne brings a wealth of industry experience within the Energy industry. He has worked within the corporate sector for a Big 6 supplier before joining Logical Utilities as a specialist in energy contracts, the energy commodity market, and creating bespoke solutions for our clients.
