Gloucestershire Business Groups Forum

The Gloucestershire Business Groups Forum brings together those who lead business groups across the county to discuss how they can work together and support their members in motivation, innovation, training and co-working among other important areas. We know that the engine room and innovation centre of any modern economy are the many micro and SME businesses that for the vast majority of the national business community. With fewer resources and ambitious goals to deliver, the need to support that business community, to facilitate communications and drive business development, collaboration and creative innovation is paramount. The network of business groups across the county and region play a pivotal part in that and the Business Forum aims to bring these groups together to share ideas and best practice and ideas.

Gill Smith

Gill is passionate about helping businesses find practical solutions to their problems and implementing them in order to increase their profits, build stronger relationships with their customers and make their businesses more robust. She looks for small business owners who are open to change, committed to action, enthusiastic to learn and know they have some business challenges they need help with.
