Motivating a generation – Young People and Business

Our business community is a core driver of society. It will reflect the world we live in and never has it been more the case than now that it needs to look to the future in an innovative, positive, ethical and open way. Join our panel discussion to help our community to understand this better. Although widely managed by those well into their working life, the business and entrepreneurial community must attract and reflect the values of those who will shape the future, bringing fresh thinking, innovative ideas into play. We must also see social and ethical values develop strong and thriving roots to support our wider society's needs.

Oliver Bruce

2020 South West Young Entrepreneur of the year
Oliver aged 26 founded PinPointMedia 7 years ago which has since become the Counties largest independent production company for film and animation. Oliver writes for the Great British Entrepreneur Magazine as well as investing in commercial property.
