#BI21.4 Reimagined Workplaces

Following a very difficult year, there is an opportunity for change everywhere in the world. Businesses that are thinking about smaller workforces, those who have grown while their workforce has been based at home. How do businesses in different cultures, different countries and different sectors look at this? With a Climate emergency looming a greater understanding of Mental Health, Equality, Diversity and inclusion issues increasingly something we are all aware of, we have an opportunity to reimagine workspaces everywhere to build a better society. There's never been such a time to look at business with a clean sheet. We see three pillars of thinking:

- Re-evaluating supply chains
- Re-evaluating Environmental processes and values
- Re-evaluating workplaces, working environment and staff wellbeing

It's a work in progress and a discussion affecting everyone.
